INTRODUCTION

California private schools serving elementary school or high school students are required by state law to file an affidavit each year with the California Department of Education, and each year the Department publishes statistics on these schools. This report is a summary of selected information submitted by California private schools for the 1991-92 school year.

The private school data collection process has been significantly changed by the passage of Senate Bill 899 (SB 899). One section of SB 899 prohibits the Department from expending funds to compile information on private schools with five or fewer students. Consequently, this report contains only information collected from 3,767 private schools with six or more students. While those private schools with five or fewer students are still required to file an affidavit, no data from these schools are included in this report.

The following characteristics may be noted from the data contained in this publication:

* The number of students enrolled in private elementary schools and high schools in California for the year was 544,817.

* Seventy-four percent of the students enrolled in private schools in California in 1991-92 attended church-affiliated schools.

* Roman Catholic schools accounted for 37.7 percent of the total number of church-affiliated schools and served 59.6 percent of the students attending such schools.

* Students in private schools accounted for 9.6 percent of the total 1991-92 enrollment in all public and private schools.

* Counties having more than 10 percent of their total students enrolled in private schools in 1991-92 were: of San Francisco, 28.4 percent; Marin, 18.4 percent; San Mateo, 14.3 percent; Los Angeles, 12.7 percent; Napa, 12.6 percent; Alameda, 12.1 percent; Santa Clara, 10.3 percent; Orange, 10.3 percent; and Contra Costa, 10.1.

Additional statistical and comparative data may be obtained, at cost, from the Educational Demographics Unit, Program Evaluation and Research Division, California Department of Education, 721 Capitol Mall, Sacramento, California (mailing address: P.O. Box 944272, Sacramento, CA 94244-2720).
